FUNDAMENTALS OF DATA DISSEMINATION

Within the national statistical services of countries with liberal economies, such as the National Statistical Service of the Republic of Armenia (hereinafter referred to as ARMSTAT), there is an increasing demand for enhanced dissemination of statistical data. In order to consistently enhance the dissemination of statistical information, improve its quality, and facilitate its accessibility, it is imperative to establish a well-defined dissemination policy. Furthermore, a comprehensive strategy for future development, along with detailed projects, actions, and guidelines pertaining to various aspects of the dissemination process, need to be formulated.

 The dissemination and communication of statistical information are governed by the "Law on Official Statistics" in the Republic of Armenia, along with other relevant legal provisions as specified by the law.

formulates a comprehensive dissemination policy, which applies to ARMSTAT and other official statistical producers within the national statistical system. This policy is implemented through transparent procedures and ensures the use of standardized terminology for the dissemination of official statistics.

PRODUCERS OF OFFICIAL STATISTICS

The Public Council of Users of Official Statistics serves as the principal advisory body on matters of strategic significance to the State Council, the President of ARMSTAT, and other official statistical producers.

ARMSTAT and other official statistical producers establish and publish a preliminary release calendar, which outlines the planned month and date for the dissemination of official statistics. In the event of any changes to the original data dissemination schedule, such deviations are publicly announced before the scheduled release date. The revised distribution date is subsequently confirmed and communicated within a reasonable timeframe.
